Good times ahead for Indian rallying

Sanjay Sharma

ver the years. I must confess. we were tempted to return to the wonderful sport of car rallying. However, we were waiting for the right moment and it came this year when FMSCI signed up a new promoter and opened up regulations to allow FIA homologated cars. We also saw that the promoter was enthusiastic while manufacturers were also showing an increased level of interest. And when 50 teams signed up for the first round in Chennai, we knew that the time was ripe to return to national rallying.

Not too long ago, when we were in the fray we had built a formidable reputation, as the team to beat. We had to live up to that so our first goal was to zero in on the best driver in the country. Gaurav Gill without doubt was 'the' man and we were happy to see that the urge to work together was mutual.

Then, we looked at other talented drivers and backed Dean Mascarenhas, Karna Kadur, Younus Ilyas and Suhem Kabeer. True to our philosophy of promoting women, we got Shiyani Pruthvi too on board.

Once we had an ideal line-up, we drew a roadmap that would help them reach their true potential.

Our concerted plan immediately yielded results. Seasoned campaigner Dean scored his first big victory on his debut with JK Tyres. As expected, Gaurav didn't disappoint, driving in his inimitable aggressive style and clocking amazing timings.

As we go forward, we will consolilying team and bring in international four-wheel cars as well as world-class tuners and engineers. By collaborating with top teams, we will build on our reputation as a force to reckon with, in every rallying and racing event. Our goal is to give our drivers the best training and exposure to blossom and convert their talent, all under the watchful eyes of experts. INRC Round 1 was pretty satisfying for competitors but the new promoter can still do a few things to make it more spectator friendly. (BYKSPORTS & MEDIA) (A motor racing and technical expert, the writer is Head of Motorsport at JK Tyre)

date on this brilliant comeback. We will soon launch the JK Tyre Ral-

